Every body who knows Mr. Douglas at all knows full well that the would not have surfaced to formidable a weapon to remain unempleyed against his opponents, had he not become curioced that the whole thing was a forgery from beginning to end. With this conviction family fixed is his mind, he-chose to renew the furgray at Ottawa which his colleague had compelled him to abandon in the Senate. He may have been mailed by the lying of his own organ when he first made the charge in the Senate; but he could not have been when he made it at Ottawa. The first forgery may have been perpetuated by the State Register; the second was perpetuated by the State Register up the islashoods of Douglas uttered in 1856 in the Senate and in 1858 at Ottawa. In 1850, 725 and '54 Mr. Lincoix lad belonged to, had been the leader of the Whig party of Illipion. In the conflict of 1854, which resulted in the choice of an Anti-Nebraska Legislature and the subsequent election of Judge Trumbull to the Senate, Mr. Lincoin fought with an energy that has rarely been exhibited in the political areas. He drove Douglas from the field six weeks before the election. To his exertions we may say, without detracting from the meed justly belonging to other champlons, is due the success of the Anti-Nebraska ticker in the court of the conflict of 1854, which was unatched from the meed justly belonging to other champlons, is due the success of the Anti-Nebraska ticker in the court of the court of the counties, and therefore in the State at large. One seat in the Senate of the United States was unatched from the Pro-Slavery party by that victory—the element of success being a union of all the enemies of Slavery extension, to meet a present issue and accomplish a present purpose.

We now come to the matter of Mr. Longhar questions at Ottawa and Mr. Lincoin's answers at Freeport. The former produced a string of resolutions which he declared were the Republican State platform of 1864, knowing perfectly well that there was so Republican State platform and main two years later, and knowing that the assemblage which he called the Republican State Convention, passed no such resolutions. From the issues of the campaign, apart from the issues of the campaign, apart from all the platforms of all the parties of the United States were the Republican State Platform of 1864, knowing Present years and passed on the conference of the subject of the campaign, apart from the issues of the campaign, apart from the issues of the campaign, apart from the issues of the camp

Then he misstated the answer of Liccoln to his seven questions, which was the most contemptible and dishonest trick in his whole speech. I read Lincoln's answer in this Beasing Journal, and heard them also repeated by air citizens from this place, who heard Lincoln at Freeport, and by comparing the Douglas version with the genuine answer, one is fully convinced that a man must have a hard face to make such false statements, and only 26 hours after the debate.

While he was going on to vilify the Republican party, Dr. Root, of this place, a most respectable and highly estemmed citizen, a man considerably advanced in years, saked several question, to which Douglas zepide; but as soon as he found fitnest! cornered by the Doctor, the great champion of the Bowery got wrathy;

I come to piece of testimony which disposes of all these various pretences which have been set up for striking out of the original Toombs proposition the classe requiring a submission of the constitution to the people, and shows that it was not done either by accident, by inadvertice ones, or because it was believed that, the till being silent on the subject, the constitution would necessarily be submitted to the people for approval. What will you think, after listening to the subject, the constitution would necessarily be submitted to the people for approval. What will you think, after listening to the tasts already presented, to show that, there was a design with those who concoted the Toombs bill as amended, not to submit the constitution to the people, if I now bring before you the amended hill as Judge Douglas reported it back, and show that the clause of the original bill requiring submission, was not only a truck was, but history that the Constitution to the people for approval, had they desired to do not it can be able to the constitution to the people for approval, had they desired to do not it can be able to the constitution to the people for approval, had they desired to do not it can be able to the constitution to the people for approval, had they desired to do not it can be able to the constitution to the people for approval, had they desired to do not it can be able to the constitution to the people for approval, had they desired to do not it will be remembered that Mr. Toombs bill provided for holding an election for delegates to form a constitution under the supervision of commissioners to be appointed by the President in the bill, as reported back by Judge bouglas, these words, not for four and the section, which we determine the constitution to the people for approval to the p original bill, are inserted at the close of the 11th section, vis:

And util the complete execulon of this act, no ellegisted to submit the election shulbs be incline satisfactorized. This clause put it out of the power of the convention, had it been so disputed, to submit the constitutions to the scape for set spinor, for it absolutely probabilists the hotding of may other acction than that for the election of heigestar, till that act was complictly excented, which evolution these beautiful that act was complictly excented, which evolution there are not all events, till her constitution was fully prepared and ready for submission to Congress for admission. Other amendments reported by Judge Douglas to the original Toombe bill, clearly show that the intention was to enable Lansau to become a State without any further action than simply a resolution of admission. The amendment reported by fir. Douglas, that "until the next Congressional apportionness, the said State shall have one representative," clearly shows this, no such provision being contained in the original Toombe bill. For what other earthy purpose could the clause to prevent any other alceloin in Kamas, except that of delegates, till it was admitted as a State, have been inserted, except to prevent a submission of the constitution, whan formed, to the people? The Toombe bill did not pass in the vanct shape in which Judge Douglas reported it. Several amendments were made to it in the Secute. I am now dealing with the action of Judge Douglas, as consecuted with that bill, and speak of the bill as he recommended it. The facts it have stated in regard to this matter appear upon the records, which I have here present to show to any man whe wishes be look at them. THE COMMUNICATION, had been stricken ou. upon Kansas vituous allowing me people to vote directly upon i, I shall attend to that branch of the subject by and by. My object now is to prove the existence of the plot, what the design was, and I sak if I have not already done as. Here are the facts: The introduction of a bill on the 7th of March, 1856, previding for the calling of a convention in Kansas to form a State Constitution, and providing that the Constitution should be submitted to the people for adeption; an amendment to this bill, proposed by Mr. Toomba, containing the same requirement; a reference of these various bills to the Committee on Territories; a consultation of Sensors to determine whether it was advisable to have the constitution submitted for ratification; the determination shalt at was not assistable; and a report of the bill back the next morning, will ke clause processing for the submission asricken out. Could evidence be more complete to establish the first part of the charge I have made, of a plot having been entered into by somebody, to have a constitution adopted without submitting it to the people? Now, for the other part of the charge, that Judge Douglas was in this plot, whether know ingly or ignoraally, is not material to my purpose. The charge is that he was an instrument co-operating in the project to have a Constitution formed and put into operation, without afforing the people an opportunity to pass upon it. The first evidence to austain the charge is the ray of testimony, Judge Trumbull then directed the attention of the sudience to the extraordinary extravagance of the present Democratic administration. His remarks on this subject were repiete with statistics, showing a waste-tulness and recklessness of the people's money that ought to brand an administration with shame, and good cause, of itself, of hurling it from power.

Of the relistions of Donelas to the administration, Judge Trumbull spoke with marked effect. In but a single issue, (the Lecompton question, bad he differed with the administration, but now he stood as squarely on the Cincinnati platform and the Dred Scott decision as it was possible for Buchanan himself to do. All who supported Douglas were belging to strengthen the hands of the very party who attempted to force a swindle on Kansaa, and which now would repeat the same thing, and endeavor to force diarery into any other Territory against the will of its people, if the slave power should demand it at its hands.

Judge Trumbull then reviewed the Republican creed on the subject of slavery, utterly disclaiming for its any indensition to interfere with that institution in the States, while the efforts of the party were directed to persevering the Territories from its baneful influences. He contended that the selvey of the country depended on the success of that party, and its defeat would be a blow aimed at the rights of free white men and free labor most disastrous in its consequence.

At the conclusion of his apseach, Judge Trum-

Réliger Press and Tribuse:
Your correspondent "I Know," makes out a close case, showing the determined efforts of the leaders of the Democratic party to Calbourize and disunionize it. If the old and true Jackson Union Democrats could but see the wires by which they have been imperceptibly drawn from the position they once occupied, to stand side by side with the followers of the arch to point the class of Democrats above referred to, to the South Carolina Convention of 1832 bill two years before, that it did not provide for the submission of the Constitution. You will find my remarks, made on the 3d of July. 1856, in the appendix to the Congressional Globe of that year, p. 179, arging this very objection. Do you sak why I did not expose him at the time I will tell you.—Mr. Douglas was then doing good service against the Lecompton iniquity. The Republicans were then engaged in a hand to hand fight with the National Democracy, to prevent the bringing of Keansa into the Union as a Slave State against the witnes of its inhabitants, and of course I was unwilling to turn our guns from the common ensemy to strike down an ally Judge Douglas, however, on the same day, and in the same debate, probably recollecting, or being reminded of the fact, that I had objected to the Toombs bill when pending, that it did not provide for a submission of the Gostimution to the people, made sanother statement which is to be found in the same volume of the Globe, page 23, in which he says:

"That the bill was slicated the subject is tree. and my alternito was called to that about the time it was passed del rated were reserved, and that of course the Constitution to the people."

Whether this statement is consistent with the statement just before made, that had the point been made it would have been yielded to, or that it was a new discovery, you will determine; for if the public records do not convict and condemn him, be may go uncendemed, so far as I am concerned. I make no use here of the testimony of Sessior Bigler to show that Judge Douglas must have been privy to the consultation held at his house, when it was determined to it is aubmit the Constitution to the people; because Judge Douglas denies if, and I wish to use his own acts and declarations, which are abandantly sufficient for my purpose. South Carolin, that State having declared them invalid, no appeal lay or should be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States.

3. That any attempt to enforce and laws would be inconsistent with the longer continuance of South Carolina in the Union, and that the people of said State would themselves absolved from all further obligation to maintain or preserve their political connection with the people of the other States, and would forthwith proceed to organize a separate government.

It will be remembered that these claims were set up under the Constitution. It was insisted that they were legitimate and necessary deductions from the doctrine of State severeignty, substantially as set forth in the Springfield reachating. President Jarkson, in his proclama-that they were legitimate and necessary deductions from the doctrine of State severeignty, substantially as set forth in the Springfield resolutions. President Jackson, in his preclamation of December 10, 1832, thus states their position. Speaking of the South Carolina ordinance, he says:

The ordinance is founded, not on the indefeasible right of resisting acts which are plainly unconstitutional, and too oppressive to be endured; but on the strange position that any one State may not only declare an act of Gongress world, but prohibit its execution; that they may do this consistently with the Constitution; that the true construction of that instrument permits a State or remain in the Union, and yet be bound by ac o her of its laws than those it may choose to consider as constitutional.

The right to secued as deduced from the nature of the Constitution, which, they say, is a compact theyen sovereign States, who have preserved their whole sovereignty, and therefore are subject to no superior; that because they made the compact they can brask it, when, in their opinion, it has been departed from by the other States. Fullacious as this course of reasoning is, it enists State pride, and finds advocates in the honest prejudices of those who have not studied the nature of our Government sufficiently to see the radical error on which it rests. The brare old chief, commenting upon this

The brave old chief, commenting upon this proposition, seems scarcely to have been able to repress his indignation:

"If this doctrine," says he, "had been established at an earlier day, the Union would have been disabored in its infancy. "Our constitutional history will afford abundant proof that it would have been repudiated with indignation, "did the States deliberately ratify such an anomaly in the history of fundamental government? No. "The Father of his Country did not affir his reverend name to so palpable an abundity."

True, the Father of his Country did not, but the Calbounised Democracy of Illinois did. They used a few more words than Mr. Calboun, but the poison is there, as certainly and effect-as in Southern Initions, or "as dark as agrys, as in Southern Illinois, the fraud will not be detected.

Where are the Jackson Union Democrats of the South? It is to be hoped that they still exist among the people; but where is one North or South among Democratic politicisms and President makers? They are non as issensing; they can't be found. Mr. Donglas is fond of talking to "Clay Whigs." What has become of the Southern Whigs? Who are they but Toomba, and Stephens, and Benjamin, of id omes genus? Has not Calhounsum driven the last vestige of the national issues from the fashe of politice? and is not the South a unit, with but one idea, and that the African? Whence came this but from Mr. Colhoun's free trade for alare productions and expansion of territory for negro labor, with its kindred interests of negro-breeding and negro-breeding and megro-breeding and the soft at the impudence to call us a "e-c-t-o-a-1" party!" and they talk this soft stuff to us "Clay Whigs," and protend to be great union-avers, when their alseroes are rolled up to their shoulders and their arms are red to the eibows in the blood of the Constitution.

When that sacred instrument has been propiered and degraded by an unauthorized and partias detum, outside of the record, not a word can be said in its defence; and our complaints even are denounced as rerolationary, as tending to ansrehy and disumbon. We are told we must appear as the four and applicated.

It can do confer no power on any local sovernment, satis head by its as the lity, to violate the provisions of the Cons. little. Put Henry County down for 1,000 major the Republican ticket. The idea of sustaining popular sovereignty in a Territory and the doctrines of the Dred Scoti decision in the same breath, is so utterly inconsistent that one or the other had to be abandoned; hence we now find Mr. Douglas contending that popular sovereignty means the right of the people of a Territory, when they come to form a State, to regulate their own affairs—a right never denied by any one.

Having thus completely established the combicity of Douglas in the attempted frand upon the people of Kansas by this overwhelming array of testimony, Judge Trumbull then directed the sitemation of the audience to the extraordinary attravgance of the present Democratic Miscellaneous. DEBLIK, Wednesday Morning, Aussat II.

The Kilkenny papers received this morning give full accounts of a series of rather alarming riots which broke out there on Sanday last, and continued throughout the following day, when it was found necessary to forward a requisition to the military authorities at the Curragu for the assistance of treops to suppress the disturbances. Transact is described by a local paper as a "rebellion of the respers," composed of agricultural laborers of the district, aided by a contingent of Connaughtmen and lurse bodies of piessanty from Tipperary and the King's and Queen's contiles, Galena and Chicago Union Railroad

The Radary Journal contains the subjoined condensed report of the proceedings:

"We regret to announce that the peace of the city has not only been seriously endangered for some days past, but that acts of violence have been perpetrated in several parts of the county, by a large body of laborers from this and the surrounding counties, who have been thrown out of employment by the introduction of machinery for agricultural purposes. On last Sunday apwards of 4,000 persons assembled in our streets, most of them armed with reaping-books, yelling it as most rightful manner, to the great dismay of the citizens, who were bourly expecting nothing less than the sack of the city. Forumately, the rioters were allowed to have their own way as long as there was no overt act of violence in the streets an 'we think the Mayor and the authorities acted with great predence on the occasion, as a single arrest might have led to most lamentable consequences. They mob, we believe, consisted principally of. disbanded militiamen from Tipperary, Queen's county, and King's county, with an auxiliary force from this neighborhood, and it would seem as if there was a certain amount of preconcert analorganization in the movement. On Sunday the city may be said to have been absolutely in their possession, but no violence took place beyond the shouting and yelling we have already mentioned. On Monday morning, at day-break, the streets rung with the rioters, who held a sort of council of war, in which it was decided that all the machinery in the county should be forthwith destroyed, as the only chance of employment for the laborer. After parading the streets for some time, they proceeded on their work to Oldtown, about twe miles from this city, to the residence of a farmer named Waish, and commenced breaking his reaping machine, which they soon smashed into fragments. Walsh offered no resistance, as he considered it useless, but looked on quietly, and the mob proceeded on their work of destruction without offering hi THOR W. ALEXANDER. Mr. Paull and Mrs. Bonustow took the train for Bristol and proceeded by steamer to the point nearest the scene of the events we have narrated.

The unusual circumstance of a post carriage entering the quiet little village at a late hour of the night created considerable curiosity, and in a short time the astounding news that the supposed murdered man had arrived allve and prosperous flew like wild-fire through the village, and the humble tavern where the strangers put up was surrounded by an exeited crowd, eager to see the man who seemed to have risen from the tomb to visit them. The ordinary quiet course of village life was so disturbed that a buge bonfire was lif near the tayers, and the excitement was kept up until towards morning.

Early ext day the travelers called upon the Rev. Mr. Trebartha, the rector of the parish, who, as magistrate, had heard the examination of Clyma on the charge of murder. That gentleman agreed to accompany them on the following day to the contry town where the insane anyhum was situated, and manifested every disposition to do all in his power towards repairing the wrongs unwittingly infloted on the unfortunate patient.

On arriving at the asylum they learned that the hapes of his recovery were very faint. The violence of his paracysms had diminished in proportion as his filness increased, and he now lay passive, though anyew when the presence of the paracysm had diminished in proportion as his filness increased, and he now lay passive, though anyew without the return of reason. For two weeks he lay in this condition, gradually getiting worse. During this time he was faithfully attended by his sister and Paull, the latter scarcely ever leaving the beside, being in hopes of at some time obtaining a sign of recognition from the unfortunate patient. On the twentieth of last month Clyma awoke from a deep sleep, and with a return of reason. It was some time before he recognized Paull, who chanced to be standing at his bedside, but when he was faithfully attended by his sister and Paull and tomo of the amorumane deceased, in set-tled enough on the aged mother of Clyma to keep her comfortable during the remainder of her days, and having made Mrs. Bosustow a handsome present, left for Liverpool with the intention of proceeding to Fraser River. The Gasette, the local paper, published in a noishboring town see. The Gazette, the local paper, published in a neighboring town, says:

"The remains of the unfortunate victim to mistaken public opinion, now lies in the same grave with those of the young woman who had preceded him to a more peaceful land. Mr. T. II. Roach of this place, has orders to erect a neat murble tomb over the grave. After the names, ages, and dates of death of the couple who sleep benath is to be the inscription: The weary are at rest."

Thomas Clyma was thirty-four years old when he died. His betrothed, Eliza Vivian, who was abouttwo years his junior, died at the age of twenty-one. Yellow Fever at New Orleans—Youth

A French ship was towed up the river and landed a one of the Third District wharves, on Saturday night. She had quite a number of French immigrants on board, who, in their joy at nearing the land of freedom, joined heart and soul in singing the anti-Napoleonic hymn known as the "Marseillaise." They kept on singing after the ship was made fast. A police officer, going on board, stepped up to them, and said to them in their own hauguage, "Gentiemen, don't hear in their own hauguage, "Gentiemen, don't have being the first the immigrants knew of the fever being in the city; and they at once stopped which may better be imagined than described which may better be imagined than described Among the passengers were eleren Catholic. usion of a Pathetic Story of Roal | Sintionern, &c. Banking and Exchan On the 15th of June this year we published, under the title of "Truth Stranger than Fiction," the story of two young men in the west of England, named Clyma and Paull, the latter of whom was supposed to have been murdered by the former, but was met in Chicago, a few days previous to the publication of the narrative, by Mrs. Bosustow, a sister of the suspected murderer. It will be remembered that the sister and Paull, the supposed murdered man, were on their way to England to see what could be done for Clyma, who had for eleven years been insane from the suspicion excited against him and the death, by grief, of his betrothed. By means of a private letters and a copy of the local newspaper, we are combled to give the sad termination of this pathetic story of real life. J. M. W. JOHES, ISAAO M. PERDUR, INC.
